VOICE OF THE KNIGHTS

Volume 57 Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, Saturday, September 21, 1963 Number 2

H-C Week Oct. 18-20

By Gary Baumann

As the 1963 Homecoming weekend approaches, it becomes clear that a person will not have to look very far in order to find some things to do, for Oct. 18, 19 and 20 will be filled with many interesting and exciting events.

Officially getting the festivities under way will be the annual production of Kastle Kapers at 8 p.m. on Friday.

This year's event, directed by Ken Schneider and Bonnie Loufek, both seniors, with cheography by DeeAnn Dreier, also a senior, boasts elaborate set designs and new and different musical arrangements, according to Gwen Parlin and Bob Bone, co-chairmen of the Homecoming weekend.

Immediately following will be the pep rally and bonfire, which will take on a new approach, according to director Jack Wendt, sophomore. A special feature will be a larger and finer display of fireworks than has ever been seen at a Homecoming pep rally.

Next to the game, perhaps the chief attraction on Saturday will be the Homecoming Dance in Knights Gymnasium. Beginning at 9 p.m., the dance will feature the Charlie Trussell Orchestra.

This year's theme is "Once Upon a Time. . ." and decorations will be based on the theme song, which is "The Days of Wine and Roses." Kathy Waughop and Ken Friday, co-chairmen of the dance committee, have announced that tickets will go on sale for $2.

HOMECOMING COMMITTEE Chairmen Bob Bone and Gwen Parlin review plans for this year's Homecoming, scheduled for Oct. 18, 19 and 20.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Wartburg College Band and Castle Singers will be featured in a program of German music on the mall.

Immediately following the concert, Pres. C. H. Becker and other school officials will be hosts at the President's Reception at the president's home.

The weekend will come to a close on a grand scale with the presentation of Jakov Fliere at the opening of the 1963-64 Artist Series.

The Smothers Brothers have definitely signed a contract and will be here Oct. 29, according to Roger Sherman, Pops Concert chairman. The show will begin at 8 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium, according to the announcement made this week.

Three Musical Organizations Choose Personnel For '63-'64

The sound of music will once again play an integral part on the Wartburg campus this year. The "Big Three" musical organizations, including Wartburg Choir, Castle Singers and Concert Band, have already arrived at membership for the present term.

Wartburg Choir, under the direction of Dr. Edwin Liemohn, head of the college music department, has added 33 members to its list.

They are sopranos Barbara Brownell, Carol Lee Cagley, Barbara Dobron, Karen Friederich, Katherine Kriesel, Chris Anne Sharpe and Bonita Thurn.

Altos include Janice Alke, LaRae Chellevold, Ruth Goldammer, Dianne Hoefs, Sharon Johnson, Marlene Kasemeier, Kathlene Kriesel, Barbara Ness, Elizabeth Specht, Janie Konecki and Donna Ostendorf.

New tenors are Robert Arneson, Michael Bade, Daniel Behnke, Gary Engelhardt, Steven Kollman, Larry Kussatz, Ronald Nelson and Ron Swanson.

Basses include Arthur Alt, Michael Bradshaw, Karl Guetzlaff, Dennis Luech, Joel Schardt, Fritz Spenn and Dennis Wenzel.

Castle Singers, directed by Dr. James Fritschel, has added 26 members to its roster.

They are freshman Mary Christensen, Sylvia Dye, John Fitzgerald, Francene Haibeck, Barbara Hudson, Sharon Fay Johnson, Vicky Kuhlman, Sue Lamprecht and Dayneen Mastin.

Also included are Ruth Pirsig, Richard Prudlo, Marlys Slattum, Andrea Trost, Ned Vaughn, Gerald Witt and Paul Zidlicky.

Wartburg College Concert Band, under the direction of Robert E. Lee, has also added a considerable number to its personnel.

They are Barbara Peterson, Dennis Dorwick and Marlene Kasemeier, flute; Lyle Page, Judith Perrin and Elizabeth Specht, clarinet.

Keith Zimmerman, Linda Clark and Barbara Schmidt will be playing saxophone; Dick Moehler, trumpet; Rhoda Reinking, French horn; Roger Kamrath and Bob Brock, trombone; Michael Bade, tuba; John Dahly and Bruce Vasseller, snare drums; and Art Alt, tympani.

Birthday Cakes Earn Scholarships

Wartburg Women's Club, which includes Wartburg women faculty and staff members and wives of men faculty and staff members, distributes birthday cakes throughout the year to Wartburg students.

Mrs. C. H. Becker, chairman of the cake bake project, gathers information concerning birthday of the students. Then parents are asked to send three dollars if they wish to have a birthday cake delivered to their son or daughter.

Money so earned is used for seven annual $150 scholarships, distributed to worthy women students on campus. Cakes are given to both men and women, although the scholarships are only for women.

This relatively new tradition was begun at Wartburg three years ago.

Loan Fund Decreased

Government loans available to Wartburg College this year are considerably lower than those of previous years, according to Mrs. Florence Hertlein, dean of women and head of student loans.

Formerly, the loans received from the government amounted to $75,000. This year the amount was decreased to $56,000.

Funds are appropriated by Congress through the National Defense Association and distributed to various colleges according to an area distribution chart set up by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"In many previous cases," Mrs. Hertlein said, " Some areas needed more than the amount allotted them. In other instances, some areas may not have made full use of the amount. When this situation arises, the excess is taken away from one and given to the other."

Now with an increase in the number of colleges and with all the colleges increasing their demand, a base appropriation has been set. This base accounts for the lower figure.

Wartburg is a member of the College Scholarship Service. Under this plan parents fill out a confidential financial statement which is sent to the College Scholarship Service Center. The CSS then sends Wartburg a need factor.

From this need factor, Wartburg determines the amount of financial aid needed and takes into consideration the student's academic standing and the funds available at Wartburg College. The maximum loan amounts to $1,000.

"It is important," emphasized Mrs. Hertlein, "that a definite proof of need is shown in order to receive a loan."

Payments on loans do not begin until one year after graduation. The interest rate is set at three per cent. Those students entering the teaching profession need pay back only one-half of the principal.

Debate Program Will Be Reorganized

Wartburg debate program is being reorganized.

"There is no reason," said Donald G. Douglas, in charge of debate, "why Wartburg can't have a good program."

About ten interested students are attending meetings. A study of fundamental rudiments and a series of inter-squad practice debates head the list of present activities.

The group has received invitations to attend three debate conferences. Plans will be made to attend one at Carthage College, Illinois, on Oct. 5. This has been billed as the national opener, if enough people will qualify.

Western Illinois University and Northeast Missouri State College will hold their tournaments Oct. 26 and Dec. 6, 7, respectively.

Debaters are seeking invitations from Bradley University, Central College, Hamline University, Northern Illinois University, University of Omaha, University of South Dakota and Wayne State University. From this group, the debaters will attend seven or eight.

"I am hoping," said Douglas, "that the students we have at Wartburg who have already expressed interest in debate will show interest in the program. It is my belief that in a relatively short period of time we shall be able to participate with national and international competition.

Fitzgerald And Brownell Top Frosh Show

By Karyl Ehlers

First prize in last night's Freshman Talent Show went to John Fitzgerald, Oak Lawn, Ill., who presented an organ solo.

Second place went to pianist Barbara Brownell, Oelwein. Third prize went to Kathleen and Katherine Kriesel, vocalist twins from Owatonna, Minn.

Winners received gift certificates which are redeemable at the college book store. First prize is worth $15; second prize, $10; and third prize, $5.

Other contestants included Diane Parker, humorous declamation; Sylvia Dye, vocal solo; Joan Noble, organ solo and Bab Calhoun and Francene Haibeck, pantomime duet.

Also, Dan Behnke, vocal solo; Judy Maxwell, piano solo; Keith Zimmerman, instrumental medley; Mary Rinderknecht, humorous declamation; and Larry Kussatz, vocal solo.

Co-chairmen for the program were Ann Wesender, Davenport, and John Prigge, Wausau, Wis. They headed a committee consisting of Bonnie Hanson, Elaine Gamb, Barb Hawkins, Leslie Lind, Barb Slygh, Cheryl Torgeson, Kathy Mensing, Dave Minor and Roger Prehn.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Margaret Hemingway, assistant to the dean of women; Raymond Norheim, History Department; and Dr. Maynard Anderson, Music Department.

"I had over forty replies from interested students during the summer," stated Miss Wesender, "but we had to limit our program to 12 acts.

Most of the acts were musical and several of them were excellent, but not appropriate for the occasion."

KATHLEEN AND Katherine Kriesel, freshmen from Owatonna, Minn., seem relaxed as they rehearse for the Freshman Talent Show. The young ladies may have found this a key to success, for they placed third in last night's show.

Why Question Beliefs?

"God, I think you have to bear some of the blame for the mess man is in."

This was one of the opening sentences of Dr. James Fritschel's chapel talk Monday evening.

His talk was a monologue directed to God in which comments and criticisms were made concerning man's freedom and God's power over man.

One statement made was ,"Lord, talking to you is like talking to a brick wall. Why don't you say something, God?"

Maybe you didn't attend chapel Monday evening, but I hope you are able to realize the tone of the subject matter.

For you who attended, what was your reaction?

Were you one who said, "Who does he think he is? He can't speak to my God that way."

Maybe you casually remarked, "It was impressive. I wonder what he was trying to get across." Or else you said, "Holy Cow! That was certainly over my head."

Or maybe you wandered out and mentioned that you thought it was exactly like last year.

Were you disturbed by what was said? Do you think we have the right to question God about putting us on earth? Do you think we have the right to rebuke God for making idiots of us? DO YOU THINK?

Perhaps many of the reasons disturbing things are presented to us is to make us think. Remember how much simpler religion was before anybody challenged it?

It was easier before we came to college and learned that maybe it took more than 24 hours to separate the sea and the land, or maybe Jonah wasn't actually in the belly of the whale, or probably there were more than three wisemen.

Why do you suppose professors challenge us to strengthen our faith?

Parents are concerned about comments students drop concerning religion at Wartburg. They wonder why the "old-time religion isn't good enough."

Our professors aren't going to give us any answers. Answers won't come easy, and some may never come.

After questioning, mulling over problems and meeting challenges, perhaps that is when the Christian is finally born.

Desired: Sportsmanship

Innumerable things may happen at the game tonight. It may rain, a player may get hurt, an official may make a wrong call, Wartburg may run 100 yards for a touchdown, Luther may not gain those few extra feet for a touchdown, the winning field goal may be blocked or the score may be tied.

Our loyalty might compel us to become so enthusiastic that we say, "I don't care what happens. Just so Wartburg wins." Let's not get carried away.

Football games are exciting, especially the first game of the year against Luther Norsemen. That's why sportsmanship is important.

Spectators, players and coaches can be guilty of poor sportsmanship. Many times it isn't even intentional. Through excitement, loyalty, misunderstanding, desire to win and exuberance, one may let sportsmanship slip.

Sometimes, having good sporstmanship is difficult, but if we are aware of the fact that it is a necessity, we can strive to make it a part of us.

Sportsmanship should not be apparent just in the Wartburg-Luther game. Now, at the beginning of a new school year, we should make good sportsmanship a part of all activities.

Members of Wartburg student body have been invited to a dance following the game. Here, too, we shall be called upon to display graceful acceptance of the results of the game.

Let's hope we can be modest winners.

Who Is The Biggest Fool At Last?

By Paul Wilken

"The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God.' " This assertion by the Psalmist is one that has possibly hit many of us squarely in the face at some time.

Not that we're unused to hearing people called fools. But we certainly aren't familiar with it in this context, which can be applied not only to the writer's contemporaries, but also to college students.

We may dismiss this as the opinionated statement of a religious fanatic whose life was unalterably determined for him by the society of superstitious nomads in which he lived.

On the other hand, we may nourish this verse in our hearts, thereby gaining reparation for being defeated in religious arguments by minds more philosophical than ours. Or it may rise up to taunt us as we were just getting our world view into focus.

In this case we may laugh it off and remind ourselves, "A heck of a lot he knew about it," or "I bet he'd sing a different tune if he were around today." Thus, we may soften the jabs to our metaphysics.

Perhaps it may not be so easily disposed of. We may have been hit harder on our cosmological chin than we are willing to admit. We don't want to play the fool, especially when the role has eternal dimensions.

We may say many things about this unequivocal statement, but we cannot say that it is irrevalant or unimportant to us. What determines for us how we decide things really are? How do we act on the basis of that decision other than whether we regard this simple sentence as true or false?

It is really very simple, isn't it? If the fool is the one who says there is no God, then we know where we stand. We're familiar enough with his terms to know that the situation is pretty much up to us, with all due respect to the influence of our genes, parents, peers, et cetera.

But if the fool is actually the one who says, "There is a God," then let's face it, there's no sweat.

There ought to be ample evidence for us to arrive at a conclusion — the accumulated knowledge of centuries, the immeasurable store of wisdom of our age, vast amounts of information about how we function physically and mentally.

And if the whole world isn't enough for us, then we stand on the threshold of space.

When we examine the evidence, it may appear to us that things are going pretty much in one direction right now, even as we view it from the vantage point of a church college campus.

Atheism isn't going backwards nor is the secularism found in all areas of our society. And Christianity isn't exactly setting the world on fire. Billy Graham did go over pretty big in Los Angeles, and Oral Roberts seems to be pretty successful.

Speaking in tongues has shown up a few places in the Church, and that is just about it. On the world scene the score seems pretty lopsided.

Is it possible that we reach this conclusion because we are focusing our attention on only one side of the issue? In our scramble to be broad-minded and objective and to probe into the vast recesses of learning, have we neglected to re-evaluate Christianity and our Christian faith, to probe into them to a comparable degree?

We may be eagerly digging into the mysteries of philosophy or psychology or some other subject and at the same time be content to slide along with only a perfunctory knowledge of the mystery of the Christian faith, convinced nevertheless that we have given both sides a fair hearing.

Is it any wonder that in such a case we succumb to our doubts and discard the faith we claim to have?

We know the other side of the story; but do we really know it? The Bible, not a scientific textbook, but a living account of God and mankind.

The Old Testament, telling of a nation searching for Jahweh and Jahweh calling it to be his people. The new Testament, bringing the fulfillment of the quest in the God-man Jesus Christ.

The Church, exploding from a handful of workingmen to the status of a world power, struggling with itself and God not unlike its Hebrew predecessors, and making itself known today wherever the Word is preached, the Sacraments administered and the festering sores of mankind cleansed and healed with Christian love.

This is the other side of the story. Have we really studied this side of it, except to find weak spots where we can poke holes in it?

Who is the biggest fool, at last? Have you asked yourself lately? What better time is there than the beginning of a new year?

BECKER'S BANTER

Knights Lead Squires To Daylight? Innocence Of Youth —

By Kathy Becker

The innocence of youth. The cheerful ignorance of those who blissfully entered Wartburg as freshmen. As trusting babes they placed their hands into those of the ones who had so recently gone before them.

The sophomores felt the need of these little ones and took them under their wings. They would show them the ways of college life.. It would be a privilege and a responsibility, but mostly a pleasure.

Becker

When one enters college, one expects to stay up late delving into the mysteries of textbooks. What could be more helpful than organized group exercise to build up the muscles of drooping eyelids?

Everyone knows the voice is at its best during the late hours of the night. Surely Dr. Liemohn appreciates the personal tryouts conducted by the sophomore class. (Anything to help out a faculty member.)

So often incoming students wonder what type of dress is worn on campus. It is important to feel a part of the group, psychologists say, and the sophomores would certainly hate to be responsible for an insecure feeling of any freshmen. The New York businessmen may have their grey flannel suits, but Wartburg freshmen proudly display orange beanies.

Cleanliness is next to that other thing, and if one can't rank in the first category, one should definitely take a stab at the second. Few things are as continental as a public bath (what's good for the Romans. . .), particularly in the fishpond—special service of the sophomores, who specialize in special services.

Then there's chivalry. Only little ladies and gentlemen are allowed to take the final vows to become Knights and Knighties. How admirable of the freshmen to hold doors for their elders and to carry books for the weak. One boy even helped a senile senior.

But the sophomores are receiving help in the academic area from dedicated teachers: "I'm not here to babysit." "Don't think this is just another year of high school." Fifty pages to be read tonight. A theme due Monday on "Why I Came to Wartburg." An autobiography for the dean.

Even pseudo-sophisticated juniors and seniors are giving them the low-down! That you simply must complain about the food or you aren't "in." That the lounges are not for TV viewing. That classes are for sleeping. That the Luther games are for winning.

And so it goes, this period of becoming acquainted with Wartburg and Wartburgers. But initiation does have a purpose: How else can the freshman class of last year get revenge? Be of good cheer, for statistics prove that the mortality rate is low. Just wait your turn; chances are it's coming next year.

Knights Meet Norsemen Today

By Harry Jebsen

A downpouring rain, mud up to their ankles and a burning desire aided the Knights in defeating the Norsemen 7-6 in the last Knight-Norse clash in Norseland. This year we look for a similar outcome under better conditions, weather permitting.

Knights do battle against arch-foe Luther tonight in an attempt to accumulate 200 points as a start in regaining the coveted Axe, presently held by the blue-clad Lutherans from the north.

Victory is the key thought in tonight's starting lineup, which should be as follows:

RE Bob Wachholz
RT Duane Huth or Dick Howie
RG Jerry Schrader or John McKee
C Dave Van Ahn
LG Duane Meyer
LT Dale Fridley
LE Paul Zietlow
QB Eldon Ott
RH Brent Bruns
LH Bill Fulcher
FB Bob Nielsen

COACH NORM Johansen said that he feels that many of these men will have to play both offensively and defensively because of a severe lack of depth on the squad. Injuries have also hurt the team.

Gayle Newlon, regular RG, is a question mark while Bernie Masker, end, has a knee injury, and Paul Anderson, sophomore halfback, is out for the season with a broken foot. This is the same injury which held him out of play last season.

Coach Johansen was not very impressed with his squad's showing in last Saturday's scrimmage. He noted that the offense and defense still have a long way to come before gametime.

The particular weakness that he pointed out was the line blocking, which he said definitely must improve.

"A MIXED-UP T is what we'll expect from Luther," said Coach Johansen.

However mixed up this T formation is, it still soundly defeated Dubuque last week 32-0, to show why Luther is one of the favorites in the IIAC race this year.

Two years ago, Wartburg Knights played at Decorah with the Norsemen heavily favored to win. However, the Knights beat them. Many veterans are left on this Wartburg squad who want to improve the gridsters' 8-11-1 overall record against the Norskies.

Intramurals To Begin With Flag Football

Flag football will inaugurate the intramural program, starting in one week. In all, 14 sports will be offered in intramurals during the 1963-64 year. Dave Olson is adviser and senior Dave Langrock, director.

Central committee consists of Julie Brown, Gerald Baldner, Mike Becker, juniors, and Margaret Freeland, sophomore.

Sign-up sheets will be posted two weeks in advance in dorms and houses. Off-campus residents may sign up in the Union.

"Primary objective of the Wartburg intramural program," said Langrock, "is to provide well organized activity and recreation for the students not participating in intercollegiate sports, with an emphasis on participation."

In order to fulfill this objective, the program must be safe, well co-ordinated, enjoyable, well officiated and provided with adequate equipment."

This year all students have paid intramural fees as a part of their activities fee. New equipment will be on hand which belongs solely to the intramural program. Officials will come from the Wartburg officiating unit, which, incidentally, is in need of more workers, according to Langrock.

These people will be paid one dollar a contest.

VARIETY IS A big factor in this year's program. A one-half mile turkey run will be held the Saturday before Thanksgiving with several prizes for the participants. Volleyball for the men will start later next spring.

During winter, basketball will be offered, along with coed bowling in January and February. Pool and table tennis will each have two tournaments, one each for men and women. Eight divisions are slated for intramural wrestling in February.

In spring, the program shifts to badminton and golf. Tournaments for these sports will be run early in April. Mixed doubles are a possibility for tennis, which will also begin in April. Softball will occupy a large portion of the latter part of April and early May, with a one-day track and field event concluding the schedule.

A PARTICIPATION award will be given to the floor or house with the highest accumulation of points at the completion of the year. The plaque in the Den will be engraved, and individual pins or medals issued.

Next week the intramural handbook will appear with listings of activity dates, eligibility rules and an explanation of how the entire program is run. There will also be a questionnaire in one of the convocation bulletins regarding which sports women wish to enter.

Women's Athletics To Start Wed.

Men aren't the only athletes on campus. Women's sports open Wednesday with a recreation night from 7:30 to 9 in the gym.

This night is primarily to acquaint all women, especially freshmen, with the general functioning of the Women's Athletic Association. It will also serve as the first night of participation in the individual sports which will be the main activities of fall.

WAA will sponsor a picnic the following Wednesday, Sept. 25. Individual sports, such as trampolins and table tennis, will be on the agenda for following meetings.

Throughout the year, WAA will have volleyball and basketball tournaments plus a spring softball tourney.

WAA meets every Wednesday night in the gymnasium. Miss Ruth Meyer, new adviser, said that she would like to see a gigantic turnout for the first and all subsequent meetings.

C.C. Begins Today

Eight harriers are slated to run for the Knights at Cedar Rapids today at 11 a.m. This is the time set for the dual meet between Wartburg and Coe, to be held at Daniels Park.

The course will be lapped four times in order to complete the customary three miles.

Time trials will be held Thursday to determine who will make the trip. Lothar Columbus, Rog Palmer, George Max and Arlyn Ristau have their positions established. The remaining four runners, according to Coach John Kurtt, could very well be Jim Rasmuson, Verlyn Behm, Gaylen Fick and Bruce Kettner, depending on Thursday's times.

Looking into the future, Kurtt added, "Lothar and his Knightmates will defeat Luther's Norsemen at the Wartburg Castle (Waverly golf course)."

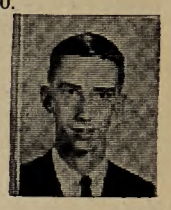
Dehorse The Norse; Bring Back The Axe

By Mike Becker

Tonight at the Luther game, Wartburg will again present the Battle-Axe for another year to Luther.

As most upperclassmen know, the Battle-Axe is the traveling trophy between Wartburg and Luther. In the six-year history of the trophy, Wartburg has held it but once, in 1959-60.



Becker

Points are determined by the season records of the athletic teams in direct competition against each other. One hundred points are awarded to the winner of the football game and the track meet, and 50 points are awarded for victory in every other athletic contest between the two schools. Fifty points are usually divided equally between the schools for sportsmanship.

Last year Wartburg won both basketball games and both baseball games for a total of 200 points. Luther won the football game and the tennis, track, cross-country and golf meet for a total of 350 points.

This is the year for a comeabout. I think if we go up to Luther with one idea — TO WIN — we will. The football players need our support, and only if they have it can they be expected to DEHORSE THE NORSE.

Luther is riding high this year after its successes of years gone by. It is time to show our junior brother who the big brother really is.

For you frosh that have never been to a Luther game, this game is a must. It's like no game you've ever seen. You don't ever stop yelling; you're on your feet all the time; in fact, something is wrong if you can talk loudly the next day. This is the time you really feel like a member of the student body, every person is there for one reason, everyone shares the same goal — to beat Luther.

You'll scream, yell, plead, do anything as long as we can beat the Norsemen. Ask the upperclassmen. They'll tell you there is nothing so exciting as beating Luther at Luther.

Summer Studies Shared By Schick

By Marilyn Post

Dr. Edwin Schick of the Religion Department this summer had the unique experience of being a participant in the first Negev Archaeological Seminar.

Sponsored by the Institute for Mediterranean Studies, which has its office in Berkeley, Calif., the Seminar was held in Israel from July 11 to Sept. 8. Executive director of the Institute is Richard Mitchell.

The group of about 35 toured Athens and Rome and visited several places in Jordan, including Jerusalem-Jordan, before reaching living and study quarters at the Weizmann Agricultural School near Beersheba in Israel.

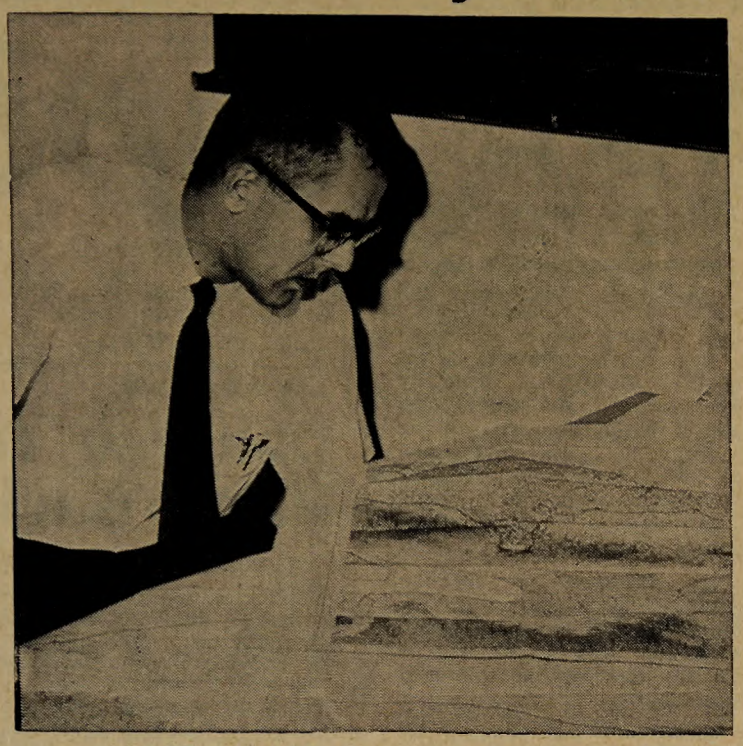
Three weeks were spent at the dig at Tell Nagila, where excavations for four hours daily comprised field work. Actual digging at the site yielded mostly Middle Bronze pottery or pottery fragments.

This experience was followed by three weeks of study at Hebrew University in Jerusalem-Israel. The group continued work in Biblical archaeology and in Biblical Hebrew.

Conducted study tours from Haifa enabled Dr. Schick to visit many places in Galilee during the final week.

When asked what the value of the seminar was to him as a professor at Wartburg, he replied, "A seminar such as this serves to add a certain reality to the Biblical records. They have become more alive for me.

"It serves, furthermore, to develop a more health respect for Biblical scholarship, especially the science of archaeology. I'm certainly not an expert in archaeology, but the exposure is good."



DR. EDWIN SCHICK looks over several maps of the areas he covered in his tour of the Holy Land this past summer.

He also acquired a little more familiarity with Biblical Hebrew.

Commented Dr. Schick, "Hebrew grammar in some aspects is not so strange any more."

He added that there were three chief personal rewards of the summer. One was the privilege of meeting people of different persuasions. He recalled, for example, a Sabbath meal a Jewish family shared with him after a synagogue service.

Another privilege was that of getting involved in archaeological method from the ground up.

"That means, among other things, hauling dirt and wielding a pick and shovel."

Third reward was visiting Biblical sites. He was at or near many of the places mentioned in the Bible and found this experience rewarding.

A number of affiliated institutions gave academic credit for work done in the seminar, Dr. Schick explained. The field work of archaeology and the course of study totaled nine hours of such credit.

Dr. Schick has discussed with Dr. John O. Chellevold, dean of faculty, the possibility of Wartburg's becoming a sponsoring institution.

The 1963 Seminar elected Dr. Schick as chairman to meet with the directors in making plans for the 1964 summer program.

There are possibilities in the program for Wartburg students, although from their viewpoint it may be a costly venture, Dr. Schick explained.

Student participants must have completed at least their junior year of college, must be above average in ability and must display an interest in Biblical studies.

'63-'64 Plays Set

Variety will be the keynote of this year's dramatic productions. Playwrights are from France, Sweden, England, Czechchoslovakia and America.

First production is a double-bill—Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" with Strindberg's "The Stronger" as the curtain rises. These will be done on the evenings of Oct. 24, 25 and 26 at 8 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

A second production has not been definitely decided as yet, but will be on Feb. 6, 7 and 8. Selection will be made from Shaw's "Arms and the Man" and Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday."

In conjunction with Spiritual Emphasis Week, March 12, 13 and 14, either Capek's "R.U.R." or Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" will be given.

Final production will be in conjunction with Castle Singers and will be either Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing" or Lerner and Loewe's "Paint Your Wagon."

Visitation Day To Be Oct. 12

Plans are now being completed for Fall Visitation Day Saturday, Oct. 12. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. All high school students are invited to visit Wartburg, according to Fred Thompson, director of admissions.

Visitors will have an opportunity to tour the campus and meet with admissions counselors and specific major advisers. Also included in the plans are a welcome program in the morning and a Wartburg-Iowa Wesleyan football game in the afternoon.

"This Visitation Day is expected to be bigger and better than in previous years and with a large high school turn-out," said Thompson.

Student Study Is Being Made

The objectives of Wartburg College are once again to be analyzed by the completion of a questionnaire. This will take place during convocation Tuesday under the direction of Dr. Wilmut Fruehling, Psychology Department.

"This questionnaire was developed to gather information from students in order to make a comprehensive evaluation of the student body and changes which take place in students from year to year," said Dr. Fruehling.

The first questionnaire of this type was given during the 1960-'61 school year. Consequently, the present evaluation will show the development of this year's seniors since they were beanie-wearers.

The study was developed by, and is being conducted under the direction of, the Committee of Liberal Art Education of the North Central Association.

It originally began as a North Central study project. Members of Wartburg's committee are the Rev. August Baetke, sociology; Dr. Robert Dell, Religion; Dean Earnest Oppermann; Dean John O. Chellevold; and Fred Thompson, Admissions.

Areas which will be considered in this questionnaire include home and family background, academic interests, character and value development and other topics related to the student.

"It is important that we have a good response and get data on all students for the best results," said Dr. Fruehling.

New Fraternity Plans Activities

Tomahawk, national activities fraternity for independent students who have been outstanding in extracurricular activities, will exist on campus this semester as a tentative organization.

On Sept. 24, letters will be sent to house and organization heads and advisers for recommendation for pledge candidates. Letters must be returned to Marcia Rench, Tomahawk committee head, by Oct. 4.

Information sheets will be sent to pledge candidates on Oct. 9. Members shall be chosen on basis of scholarship, leadership, participation in campus activities, character and interest in the welfare of students.

Once a person has been selected, formal honorary membership will be conferred for life.

Pledge Week co-chairmen, Jan for Oct. 20-26, according to Pledge Week co-chairmen, Jan De Wall, junior, and Bob Braun, junior.
